Pathology Billing Policy

During your visit at Dermatology Associates, P.A. your doctor may find a suspicious spot on your skin (e.g. abnormal-appearing mole or skin cancer) or you may have an unusual rash that needs to be identified. With your consent, a biopsy of your skin may be performed.

Under law passed in 2005 by the North Carolina General Assembly (House Bill 636), we are required to disclose to all patients the price we pay for pathology services and what we bill your insurance plan and you.

Medical billing has evolved into a complicated process. We at Dermatology Associates, P.A. aim to maintain the most accurate and transparent billing practices. At this time we purchase dermatopathology services (i.e. preparing the biopsied skin and examining it under the microscope) from Richfield Laboratory of Dermatopathology (Dr. David Barron, Dr. Colleen Embi, Dr. Terrence Katona, Dr. Susan Kindel, Dr. Ruth Kleier, Dr. Alice Roberts, Dr. Kay H. Seilstad, Dr. Alejandro Peralta Soler, Dr. Hemella L. Sweatt) in Cincinnati, a division of DermPath Diagnostics. This group was chosen due to the superb expertise and training of the physicians, all of whom specialize in skin pathology. Many local pathologists bill in excess of $150-$175 per specimen. If special stains are required the charges can be much higher. We purchase services from DermPath Diagnostics for $30 per specimen (CPT code 88305). We will bill your insurance company a flat fee of $150 per specimen in order to cover our costs and prevent you from paying a higher fee. Occasionally, the pathologist needs to perform special stains in order to ascertain the diagnosis (CPT code 88312, etc). DermPath Diagnostics charges our practice $15.00 per extra stain. We will bill your insurance $150 for each of these services, as delineated by Medicare reimbursement. Our billed charges are generally reduced by the insurance company. For most biopsy specimens billed, we actually receive between $47 and $108 in reimbursement per specimen from your insurance plan. As always, we strive to provide you with excellent medical care and services. If you have any questions about this policy, please speak with our billing representatives.
